

FIRM

Will Coal Operators Stand.

They Have Made Up Their Minds To This.

SUCH IS STATEMENT MADE BY ONE OF THEM.

THE RUMORS OF A SETTLEMENT

Again Dissipated—Committee Starts to Gain Upon Governor Stone at Harrisburg.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 11.—The miners' strike will never be settled by arbitration or any concessions granted by the operators. The men must go back to the mines on unconditional terms. This the operators have made up their minds to, for once and all. After this thing is ended there will be no more strikes, for either the operators or the miners will be the masters of the situation and I think we have the right to boss our own works.

This is the answer made this morning by an official of a big Nanticoke mine to your correspondent's query as to the chances of a settlement of the strike.

The rumors of concessions to be made by the operators are dissipated today.

The Brisban colliery which resumed work yesterday continues operations today without trouble being offered by the strikers.

IT WASN'T POSTED.

Tamaqua, Pa., Sept. 11.—All the region was on tip toes last night and this morning due to the report that a notice offering concessions if the men return to work Monday would be posted at the collieries this morning. But the big sombre monsters stood as silent as ever. No notices were posted.

The property loss is heavy.

COL. WELLS

Makes Application for Lease of Gibson Island, a New Discovery at Buckeye Lake.

W. C. Wells of Newark has applied to the state canal commission for the lease of what he calls Gibson Island in the Licking reservoir, for cottage purposes. The island is a new discovery to the canal commission for it is not marked on their maps. Mr. E. E. Dooten their engineer, said that it could not have more than 30 square feet of area, and in high water much of that may disappear. However the water is shallow about the island and a little dredging may make ample space for a cottage. The building of the electric railway to Buckeye Lake is making a big demand for islands for summer homes among Columbus people.—Columbus Dispatch.

LIFE IN NEVADA

INTERESTING LETTER WRITTEN
BY F. D. McQUEEN.

Description of His Experience in the West—Cowboy Life—Indian and Mining Camps.

Oseola, Nevada, Aug. 26, 1902.

Editor Advocate—Dear Sir: Thinking perhaps a letter from me would be interesting to some of the readers of your valuable paper, I will give a sketch, the best my ability will permit. One year ago last April I left Newark, accompanied by my wife, father and mother, for Snake Valley, Nevada, to make our future home—I to take up the lively profession of a cowboy. We were one week on the road and mother was taken violently ill at Tennessee Pass owing to coming in contact with a snowstorm. When we reached Salt Lake City we were obliged to remain there several days, and to secure the services of a physician for mother, who recovered rapidly.

We then continued our journey to my Uncle Gonder's ranch in Snake Valley, where we arrived safely and were welcomed home. The meeting between mother and uncle, after so many years of separation, was truly affecting. I soon provided father and mother with a cozy little home, under the shadow of old Jeff Davis peak, which smiles benignly down upon them. Father is improving instead of declining, at the youthful age of 81 years, and mother is greatly improved in health. Uncle Alex and Aunt Elsie Gonder are happy to have us with them, and I am happy in the prospect of riding over the mountains with the most adventurous cowboy of them all. This being the Rhodes season, I am presented with a sprightly little cow pony, and arrayed in buckskin shirt, chaps, sombrero, boots and spurs, I set out for the range, the gayest cavalier in the outfit. Many pranks were indulged in for the edification of the tenderfoot, but as I always returned their jokes with interest, they soon ceased to annoy me. Sleeping on the ground, cooking by the camp fire, pursuing wild animals, firing a shot at a lone coyote, an antelope or a deer may be reckoned among the cow boys' greatest pleasures. At least it is picturesque, and life in the west, as elsewhere, is what you make it.

The boys soon discovered that I had a turn for cooking, and they did not hesitate to employ me in the culinary department, but I always rode out between meals, sometimes missed the trail, and lost myself among the buttes. However I never remained lost for a very long time as my services were so highly esteemed in the cooking department that the boys soon sought me out. When branding time came on I was employed in tending the branding irons, passing them around to the cowboys, who think nothing of applying them at red heat to the animals' tough hides. The process is interesting to a spectator. A number of cattle are driven into an enclosure (called corral) surrounded by stakes driven deeply into the ground and bound tightly together with strips of rawhide which binds them more firmly together than nails would do. For as they dry up they shrink and draw the stakes so closely that you imagine they are welded together. Here the cowboys ride their bronchos among the cattle, whirl their lassos around the animals' horns or legs and then coil the rope around the horn of their saddles until the animals, after several futile efforts to escape, are thrown down and the branding irons applied, when they are released and the same performed with others until all are branded.

Mr. Majors, of Salt Lake City, cattle buyer for Saunders & Co., was pleased to say that I acquitted myself very creditably for a new hand in the business. Mr. Majors purchased at that time two hundred head of steers from my uncle Gonder.

Haying on the ranches is a very arduous undertaking, as many as five hundred tons of alfalfa being harvested in a single season. Gathering the cattle together and herding them on the winter ranges are pieces of business that may be called real hard work. Cousin Will Gonders, Indian Jack and myself had plenty of riding during the fall roundup. At that time I was offered a position in a grocery store, which I accepted. The store is situated in the old mining camp of Oseola, White Pine county, Nevada, a place which has been celebrated by Mrs. General Spencer under the name of Cetawayo in the novel "A Plucky One."

Clerking here and clerking in Ohio are widely different. Many miners who are prospecting about in the mountains purchase their goods with gold dust, which has to be very carefully weighed. In this store, which is kept by J. F. Scott (same one who is mentioned in Mrs. Spencer's novel as Potts, the butcher) we do a large business in miners' supplies, Indian goods, etc. I am learning the Indian vernacular of the Plutes and Shoshones, as I need it in my business of trade.

Oseola is high up in the mountains near Wheeler's Peak (or Jeff Davis peak, as the rural folk call it). The town is about 8000 feet above sea level. There are many peaks in the vicinity ranging from 10,000 to 14,000 feet. In these mountains it is quite as likely to snow on the Fourth of July as on Christmas day. On the fourth day of last July we had about one inch of snow. In connection with my business of clerking I opened a restaurant, but a saloon being opened next door I abandoned it. It requires nerve to do business in a western mining camp. One can not get insurance on property on account of the scarcity of water. Last Easter Sunday morning the store in which I am employed was destroyed by fire.

When discovered the fire had made such headway that no one dared to enter the building. It was a total wreck and no insurance. There was quite a quantity of ammunition stored in the cellar, which kept popping off for nearly two days after the fire. The store was rebuilt and running again in 30 days. The owner lost several hundred dollars in cash as well as all his accounts. I am building up quite a trade in the sale of buckskin shirts, moccasins, Indian blankets, etc. I also trade in small gold nuggets, am advertising them in Eastern sporting magazines. The Indians themselves are good customers, but are afraid of the whites. Toward evening they leave town and go to their "wickiups" as they call them (which means their wigwams) and when they retire lie on the ground with their feet toward the fire. After occupying these wickiups for a few weeks the surrounds become so dirty that they move off to some distance and build another wickiup. They always sit on the ground, whether it be wet or dry cuts no figure with them. When they ask for food they say "Gim me heap tea cup; me heap hog a die," which means "Give me some dinner, I am very hungry." And truly you would think so, you were to see them eat. No matter what kind or how large the quantity, none of them have ever been known to leave anything. They have a most wondrous eating capacity. But it is nothing compared with their appetite for strong drink, which is a fine of $5 and imprisonment for any white man known to give or sell them liquor. Some of the Indians like to have white people write letters for them. They fancy it adds to their importance. One of them, called Silver Moon, came to the store one day and asked me to write a letter to his friend whom he called Laughing Jack. I asked him where he wished the letter written to and what he wished to say, etc. He replied that it was Sunnyside P. O., Nevada, and that he lived in his wickiup, on Little Cherry Creek. He dictated the letters as follows:

Oseola, Nevada,

July 10th, 1902.

May-be so Jack you come git 'im horse, him in Spring Valley. Be no 'fraid; him all right. You git 'im. May be Injun him pretty soon he hung. Him now in Ely in jail. He kill 'nother Injun down big Cherry creek, lots of sleep ago. My aunt Nellie her all dead. Injun kill'er Broncho Charley him all right. My Squaw all right. My boy all right. Me brave.

SILVER MOON.

The last Indian trouble in this part of the country occurred a few years ago. Two prospectors were attacked and murdered by Indians on Mt. Moriah in this neighborhood. The Indians were captured and hung at a ranch in Snake Valley. I have seen the graves where the prospectors lie buried. The view over Snake Valley, Spring Valley, and the Shell Creek and Wasatch Range is a grand sight to behold from the lofty peak of Jeff Davis. Near the base of this mountain is situated the celebrated "Indian man Cave," the entrance to which was accidentally discovered by a cowboy, he and his horse having nearly dropped into it before he discovered their danger. He gave it his name and sold it to a man named Roland. The first part of the entrance is called "Falmans misery." Other chambers of which there are several bear such euphonious names as the "Bridal Chamber," "Assembly Hall," "Music Gallery," "Skating Rink," "Cypress Swamp," "Lake Como," "Slide Saddle," "St. Jacob's well," "Pompey's Pillar," &c. In the music gallery there is a musical formation which when struck vibrates the tones of a piano. In the dim light of the candles the stalactite and stalagmites are not seen to good advantage. While this cave situated close to a large city or town where it could be illuminated by electricity the interior would present a magnificent spectacle. Many figures resembling human beings are so perfect as to lead you to imagine that they must have been sculptured by a Michael Angelo of the old school, or a Hiram Powers of the new. The Greek Slave itself not being more seemingly perfect. In point of fact the Uppizzi or Petti Galleries can show nothing more perfect. Had this cave been situated over in Europe, all good Americans would find it an incumbent duty to visit it. But now, like the proverbial prophet, as it is in our own country we take no or little interest in it. Snake Valley lies on the eastern side of the Snake Range and is dotted with several fine ranches, my uncle Gonder's being among the finest. I have often listened to him relate his adventures as an over-land freighter in the early sixties, during which time he suffered great hardships, often going three months at a time without a single night's rest beneath a roof—the sky being his canopy and the earth furnishing his couch. The frightful exposures he then endured have been the cause of his present nervous condition and rheumatic affections. He is now an old man in wretched health while his wife, aunt Elsie, is a young looking and beautiful woman. She is the daughter of Mr. Peter Robinson, the Mormon elder who founded the town of Fillmore, Utah, which was at one time the capitol of Utah. Mr. Robinson is still living at Garrison, Utah, on the Utah and Nevada line and his numerous and distinguished family are all married and most of them reside in Snake Valley, all well-to-do and industrious. I do not remember having seen a family of finer physique or nobler stature, the men of whom there are several, all being over six feet tall. Another one of his daughters is married to Mr. W. T. Gregory, a wealthy sheep rancher in Snake Valley, and is the mother of a very interesting family, all of whom are beautiful. Those who are old enough are being highly educated. In fact Snake Valley has been settled chiefly by the Robinson family. The Baker family who also reside in the neighborhood are very wealthy and well educated. They own immense herds of cattle and great fruit orchards which net them a handsome income.

Spring Valley lies between the Sell Creek Range and the Snake Range. One may obtain a magnificent view from the peaks near Oseola. Mr. A. C. Cleveland, whose residence is situated at a distance of about twelve miles in a northwesterly direction from this camp is considered one of the wealthiest men in Nevada. Both he and his wife are celebrated all over the country for their genial and distinguished hospitality, and rarely do they find themselves without a number of guests. His place is surrounded by large groves of poplar trees, and his dwelling house is set like a gem in an orchard and flower garden. He raises fruit and melons almost as large as any California can show. He deals extensively in fine horses and cattle, and employs several cow-boys and ranch hands. Mr. Cleveland is now a candidate for United States Senator and nowhere can there be found an aspirant with stronger backing or who can show a more worthy record. Were it not for the scarcity of water in this famous old gold camp, placer mining would be carried on very extensively. Oseola has produced many thousands of dollars in placer gold. The product taken out is usually coarse and in the past some very large nuggets have been found. Several years ago one of the value of $4000 was discovered and at another time one was sold for $2400. There is yet much good placer ground in the camp which would pay handsomely if some means is devised whereby water could be obtained more readily. Little attention has been paid to quartz mining in the camp in the past, but more interest is being taken now, and in a few weeks the Butterfield Mining company will have its new mill of five stamps, dropping 1,000 pounds each, in operation, and which the manufacturers have guaranteed the management will crush and handle through a forty mesh screen, forty tons of ore daily. Manager E. T. Knowlton, who has arrived from Boston, announces that five extra stamps will be put in as soon as they can be obtained from the factory. The mill will be a combination amalgamator and concentrator. Oseola has the proud distinction of being the headquarters for what is said to be the best tungsten mines in the United States. The properties are owned by J. H. Marriott and consist of some twenty locations. SUFFERED FOR YEARS.

J. R. Sickles, ladies and gents' tailor, Tiffin, Ohio, writes: "I have been a sufferer from general debility, liver and kidney complaint, chills and fever, headache and lameness of the joints, cold hands and feet. I was a physical wreck; had been treated by some of the best doctors as could be found, and taken nearly all kinds of patent medicines, but it all availed nothing. I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to find a cure. This is a case of twenty years' standing. I got so far gone that I could not work more than six or eight hours per day, and would become perfectly exhausted. I was recommended by Messrs. Clynne & Larey to try your remedy, BLOOD WINE, which I am glad to state has proved very satisfactory. I have gained strength, health, vigor, and am able to carry on my daily labor with the greatest ease. I would say that if this should reach the eyes of any sufferers from such complaints they should try BLOOD WINE, which is a safe and a sure cure, full of tonic value, without danger of disturbing the action of the heart or stomach. I thank you, gentlemen, for the restorative power contained in BLOOD WINE."

Miss Cannon, Who Was Deserted at Wedding Receives a Letter from Mr. John Myers.

Utica, Ohio, Sept. 11.—Miss Zona Cannon, who was deserted at the hour set for her marriage, has received a letter from her lover, John Myers, of Clarksburg, W. Va. He says his action was because he had been told that Zona was marrying him only for his home and money.

The wedding was to have taken place at Newark recently. Miss Cannon does not appear to be taking the matter to heart and it is said that no effort will be made to induce Mr. Myers to fulfill the wedding contract.

FRIGHT CAUSED ILLNESS.

Mt. Vernon, O., Sept. 11.—Mrs. B. M. Roberts, residing south of town, was taken dangerously ill of heart failure Tuesday evening. She attempted to give an infant child a dose of medicine which caused it to strangle. Mrs. Roberts thought the child was dead, the shock bringing on a fainting spell caused by her heart. Dr. Conrad was called and found the woman in a dangerous condition. She was soon revived, however.

GRANVILLE

Denison University Opens Its Seventy-Second School Year—Outlook for the Year is Bright.

Granville, Ohio, Sept. 11.—Denison University's 72d year began this morning. Students are arriving in large numbers and the indications point to a large attendance.

Charles Patterson of Jamestown, who has been entertained by Delaware friends, left today for Granville, where he will enter the university.—Delaware Gazette.

Miss Carrie Holderman of Detroit, Mich., who formerly attended school in Granville, arrived in the village on Monday evening, and will be the guest of Miss Stella Case during the coming week.

Boyd Chambers, the base ball pitcher who comes to Denison from Huntington, W. Va., brings with him a young man named Osborne, who is also a fine ball player. Both of these young men played on the Marshall College nine. Denison will have a team next year that will be almost invincible.

Miss Hattie Vincent of Cincinnati, who has been visiting here for several days, has returned home.

The repairs on the Phi Gamma Delta house have been completed, and Mrs. Calla Jackson Barnett of Huntington, W. Va., will be the matron. Miss Eva Johnson of London, Ohio, is visiting friends in the village for a short time.

C. Carlton Bell, D. U. '94, who has been teaching and studying in Berlin for the last six years, is in the village this week. He enters Harvard next week, taking a position as instructor.

Dr. F. W. Shepardon of the University of Chicago, accompanied by his son, Whitcomb, arrived here on Wednesday night, and will remain here for several days. Whitcomb will attend college, and has already registered.

Among the new students from Dayton are Earl Bull and Robert Sullivan. Mrs. George Hayden, after a short visit here with friends, left for her home in Muncie, Ind., on Wednesday.

It is understood that six new students who were in Wooster University last year, have entered Denison this fall, having been attracted here by the fine record made by Denison in athletics last year.

The case of Miss Amanda Tharp of the Commercial House of Newark, against David Ramey, for a board bill, was tried before Squire Dorsey and a jury on Tuesday, resulting in Mrs. Tharp securing a judgment for the amount claimed, less the offset presented by Mr. Ramey.

H. G. Miller was in Newark today arranging for the entrance into the Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home at Xenia of his two children.

BODIES

Of Men Killed in Boiler Explosion Reach St. Louisville—Further Details of Accident.

St. Louisville, Ohio, Sept. 11.—The bodies of Nelson Hutchinson and Harley Spicer, the two men who were killed yesterday by the explosion of a saw mill boiler near Martinsburg, have been brought home for burial.

The funeral will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Both men were terribly scalded. Mr. Hutchinson sustained in addition to other injuries, a deep gash across the back of his neck. His neck was broken and his skull fractured and the unfortunate man lived but a moment.

Spicer was scalded from the waist up. He lingered only a short time. His face was burned so badly that it could not be recognized.

As soon as the accident occurred the engineer promptly jumped upon a horse and rode to Utica, where he secured a physician. Shortly after the latter reached the scene of the accident, however, Spicer breathed his last. Besides Dr. Smith of Utica, Dr. J. F. Shrontz and Dr. Dicus were called to the scene.

While in Utica the engineer stated that as there was plenty of water in the boiler of the engine he was at a loss to know just what caused the terrible accident.

One piece of the engine was heaved into the air above the tops of the tall trees. When it descended it cut its way into the ground a depth of several inches. Other pieces were blown far into the woods so great was the force of the explosion, the force of which was heard and felt for several miles around. There was 85 pounds of steam in the boiler when it blew up.

Mr. Neibarger inspected the engine and boiler not more than five minutes before the accident and said that everything was all right. Engineer Hunt heard a sizzling noise a moment before the explosion and called out for all hands to get away. Hunt ran with all speed into the woods and succeeded in getting a safe distance away before the explosion came. It is said the boiler was thoroughly cleaned four days ago.

DETAILS OF GRIMM ACCIDENT.

Pataskala, Ohio, Sept. 11.—The attendance at the funeral of Homer A. Grimm who met with a fatal accident at Pittsburg, was unusually large. Six young men, his former associates, acted as pallbearers.

Mr. Grimm, who was 26 years old, was working on a swinging scaffold a hundred feet from the ground, engaged in painting one of the railroad bridges of Pittsburg, and, in quitting work at the noon hour, attempted to step from one scaffold to another, but missed his footing and fell to his death below.

Strange as it may seem, there were no bones broken, aside from his collar bone. However, one side of his face was badly bruised while the great shock resulting from the fall was sufficient to cause death. He lived for three and one-half hours after the accident and was conscious at times.

When taken to the hospital he gave the attendants the name of one whom he desired to see—a dear friend, Miss Florence Eyth, of Butler, Pa., but the young lady did not arrive in time to bid him a last farewell. Miss Eyth attended the funeral services, arriving here Saturday evening.

JAMES SMITH KILLED.

FILLING THE BIG HOLE.

Coshocton, Ohio, Sept. 11.—The Wheeling has a steam shovel working at Rock Run cutting out the hill and eliminating a curve. The material is being hauled to the trestle east of Chestnut where the great hole caused by the washout of two years ago is being filled. The washout will be remembered by Coshocton people as that into which a freight train plunged and Engineer Doyle and Fireman Dillger were killed. Other improvements are being made or are in contemplation on this division.

Delaware, Ohio, Sept. 11.—The trustees of the Girls' Industrial Home will meet in this city on September 17 to elect a successor to Superintendent A. W. Stiles.

FUNERAL

Of Mrs. John Schaad Took Place on Wednesday at Kirkersville—A Sketch of Her Life.

The funeral of one of the oldest and highly respected pioneer citizens of Licking county, Mrs. John Schaad, took place in Kerkersville at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Schaad's maiden name was Margaret Barbara Steiger, and was born in Switzerland on the first of June, 1828. When only four years old, in 1832, she was brought to this country by her parents, who settled in Licking county, which has been her home ever since, a period of seventy years. She was married early in life to Rheben Mack, who died quite a number of years ago. This happy union was blessed with three children, two sons and one daughter. The daughter passed away to the spirit land a number of years ago. Some time afterwards the deceased was remarried to the late John Schaad, with whom she lived very happily until his death some three years ago. Three children were also the fruit of this union, two sons and one daughter, the latter of whom died about a year ago.

Mrs. Schaad died at her home in Kerkersville on Monday, September 8, 1902, in the forenoon, aged 74 years, three months and seven days. Her funeral took place on Wednesday at 10 o'clock a. m. from her late home in Kerkersville. The funeral discourse was preached in the Reform church, five miles southwest of Kerkersville, of which church the deceased had been a devoted member the greater part of her life. The remains were followed to their last earthly resting place by a large concourse of friends, who loved the deceased in life, and sincerely mourn her in death.

THE BIG COAL FIVE.

MEN WHO CONTROL THE PRODUCTION OF ANTHRACITE.

Giants in the industrial and financial affairs of the nation—mighty forces against which the miners have been contending.

Excepting a few unimportant deposits in Colorado and New Mexico the anthracite coal of this country is confined to the Pennsylvania mines, and the vast industry of mining and transporting this fuel to market is controlled by five men. They are President George F. Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading railway, Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; Frederick D. Underwood, president of the Erie railroad; President W. H. Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad and President Thomas P. Fowler of the New York, Ontario and Western railroad.

These five men—the big five—are called—are mighty powers in the financial and industrial world. Subject to their dictum are hundreds of thousands of men, women and children and properties producing hundreds of millions of dollars annually. Combined as they now are they exert a mighty force on the affairs of the nation.

First and foremost in the big five is President George F. Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading railway. He is a native of Pennsylvania and is sixty years old. Mr. Baer is a veteran of the civil war and by profession a lawyer. His mind is keen and militant. For years he was the confidential legal adviser of J. Pierpont Morgan in Pennsylvania, and when the Philadelphia and Reading was reorganized after the receivership in 1893 he took a prominent part in the reorganization and was placed at the head of the system.

Through his generalship a year ago the purchase of the Jersey Central was consummated. By acquiring this road the Reading now owns and controls about 63 per cent of the unmined anthracite coal in the state of Pennsylvania.

Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the vast Pennsylvania system, is also a native of the Keystone State. After a liberal education he entered the employ of the Pennsylvania road as a rodman. His advance was rapid, and ten years later, at the age of thirty-two, he was made general manager of the entire system. Twelve years he spent in this position, when he retired with a fortune. On the death of President Thomas in 1899 Mr. Cassatt was chosen as his successor. He is sixty-three years old.

W. H. Truesdale first saw the light in Ohio fifty-one years ago. He began his railroad career as a clerk in the service of the Rockford, Rock Island and St. Louis railroad in 1863. He was made president of the Minneapolis and St. Louis road in 1887, and in 1889 he became head of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

The president of the Erie railroad is also general manager of the Baltimore and Ohio as well as head of the New York, Susquehanna and Western and several other railroads and coal companies. He began railroading as a brakeman.

Thomas P. Fowler, the last of the big five, is a native of New York and fifty-one years old. He is president of the New York, Ontario and Western; Ontario, Carbondale and Scranton and the Scranton Coal company. As such he controls a good percentage of the anthracite output of the Pennsylvania fields.

AERIAL POLO.

A Queer Kind of Amusement on a Pacific Ocean Island.

Writing on "Our Equatorial Islands" in the Century, James D. Hogue says: It became an amusing diversion to overturn the large flat stones beneath which the rats were hiding in solid masses and watch them as they scampered in all directions, pursued and quickly snatched up by the man-of-war hawks. These crafty birds were apt to learn that the appearance of a man walking on the island, especially with a dog, meant rats for them, and any one thus going forth was usually followed by a hovering flock, ready and impatient for the sport they had learned to expect. A rat brought to hand by the dog was quickly tossed in air, where the birds were ready to snatch it, sometimes with a contest on the wing for the disputed possession. One form of this sport, a sort of aerial polo, which seemed to be as good fun for the birds as for the observers, consisted in tossing two rats into the air at the same moment, not singly and apart, but tied together with about six feet of strong twine.

Instantly the birds made a dash for the rats, and the successful winner of the first prize went sailing off with one rat in his bill and the other swinging in the air beneath until snatched by the second winner, when, after a quick, sharp struggle and a taut strain on the cord, the bird with the weaker hold was compelled to let go. This then went on as a continuous performance, with somewhat Jonah-like but rapidly repeated disappearances and reappearances of the little rats, swallowed and reluctantly disgorged by the flock, thoroughly exhausted by their impetuous flight and extraordinary exercise, alighted on the ground for a short truce, when the two temporary stakeholders would be found sitting face to face, keenly eying each other from opposite ends of the string still connecting them, each anxiously on the sharp lookout for sudden jerks and unpleasant surprises, while all the other pursuers gathered around in a ring, waiting for the two prize birds to fly. The general aspect of all participants seemed to verify the familiar adage that the pleasure is not in the game, but in the chase.

SCIENCE SIFTINGS.

While volcanic eruptions are usually restricted in area, earthquakes are not.

If all the mountains in the world were leveled, the average height of the land would rise nearly 250 feet.

The face of Jupiter presents a considerable number of markings, notably one great scarlet patch covering nearly 400,000 square miles.

The amount of heat produced by an average man in a day's work would be sufficient to raise sixty-three pounds of water from freezing to boiling point.

Cirrus clouds were once observed at a height of 43,800 feet. This is by far the greatest height at which cloud vapor has ever been noted above the surface of the earth.

Experiments made while in a balloon show that when a height of 15,000 feet has been reached the number of corpuscles in the human blood have increased by one-third.

The atmospheric pressure upon the surface of an ordinary man is 32,400 pounds, or over fourteen and a half tons. The ordinary rise and fall of the barometer increases or decreases this pressure by 2,500 pounds.

His Offhand Manner.
"Dan," said a contractor to one of his trusted employees, "when you are seeing about that line this morning, I wish you to mention to Dempsey that I would like to have that bill paid. You needn't press it, you know, but just mention it to him in an offhand manner."

"Yes, sorr."

"I got the money from Dempsey," said Dan on his return.

"I'm very glad. You merely alluded to it in an offhand way, I suppose?"

"Yes, sorr. I handed him the bill and told him if he didn't pay it I would let off my hand and give him a black eye that he wouldn't forget for a month, and he paid it at once."—London Answers.

Philial Sympathy.
"When I was your age," said Mr. Goldbags sternly, "I earned my own living."

His son looked uneasy, but was silent.

"Well, have you nothing to say for yourself in that connection?"

"Nothing, sir, except that I sympathize with you, and congratulate you on the fact that it's all over."—London Tit-Bits.

Not as Considerate as He Might Be.
"He's a good friend of yours, isn't he?"

"Oh, only medium."

"What do you mean by medium?"

"Oh, he listens while I tell him all of my troubles, but he also wants me to listen while he tells me all of his."—Chicago Post.

He Had It.

"Yes; it's Fullerton's bobby that advice is cheap and within the reach of every person."

"What does he mean, anyhow?"

"What he says, I suppose. He's a confidential divorce lawyer."—Baltimore News.

An Aesthetic Soul.

"Well, did she buy the book?"

"No," replied the clerk. "She said she didn't like the cover design."—Detroit Free Press.

SHORT STORIES.

The charge for a dog taken to Europe on the main lines of steamers varies from $10 for a lapdog to $30 for the larger animals.

The old receiving ship Vermont, whose keel was laid in 1813, was burned at Eastport, Me., recently for the metal in her hull.

It is said that almost every steamer from the Hawaiian Islands that arrives on the Pacific coast brings hundreds of Japanese laborers.

A natural soap mine has recently been opened up at Ashcroft, B. C. The material in which the active principle is borax is being taken out by the ton. Rev. J. H. D. Inckrey of Cambridge, Mass., is trying to secure a building there for a home for colored students at Harvard. It is to be called "Emancipation building."

Artesian wells made possible the growing of melons in Colorado, crops being successful several years running, and then a sandstorm came along and cooked the melons on the vines.

Because they objected to its noise some residents of Paterson, N. J., buried a church bell recently after it had been taken down pending repairs in the church. The congregation later dug it up.

St. Louis enjoys the distinction of furnishing a French audience whenever a Frenchman of eminence visits that city, who can understand and appreciate what he says. New Orleans and New York are the only other two cities in the United States that can do it.

THE FASHIONS.

Checked materials in two or three contrasting colors and in different weaves will again be used extensively.

At the beginning of the autumn season, when new gowns are being ordered, the skirt and coat styles are in the greatest request.

The handsome velles, etamines and French mohairs in colors suited for either day or evening wear are being largely used by dressmakers who are now preparing autumn outfits.

The fashion of wearing light transparent waists with silk linings, with skirts of cloth, etamine, cheviot, etc., will continue through the entire autumn season and perhaps the winter as well.

It is said that buttons in great variety are once more to be used—not merely as a means of fastening, but as ornaments. This, if true, is to be regretted, for the vulgar excess to which this fashion was carried in times past was ridiculous.

Sashes of every description are seen on every sort of summer dress, from the simple draped scarf of plain batiste or swiss muslin on the morning gown to the diaphanous or Louis Quinze sashes of embroidered chiffon, India silk, or crepe-de-chine on the elaborate evening toilet.—New York Post.

HOMILIES FOR THE HOME.

The most becoming thing to any woman is that which she can best afford to wear.

Overdressed people convey the impression that they are mortgaged to their clothes.

Your wife can tell you just how much you really know about women, but she won't.

Many a much envied society woman can tell you how hopelessly empty is a life filled with money.

When you wait until all the other places are closed, don't blame your wife for "opening up" when you get home.

Don't expect a ruthlessly plucked husband enthusiastically to endorse the assertion that fine feathers make fine birds.

If you trust your wife half as much as you do your banker, the chances are more than two to one that she won't be the first to break.—New York Times.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

John B. Mason will be with Elsie De Wolfe's company this season.

Sydney Deane has been engaged for the support of Mabel Gilman.

The death of Giovanni Emanuel, the Italian tragedian, occurred at Rome.

Maud Turner Gordon is to play Mrs. Richard Sterling in "The Climbers."

Mary Hampton has been engaged as leading woman in "The Price of Pardon."

Harry Crandall has been engaged by Gus Hill for the cast of "Alphonse and Gaston."

Rose Beaumont is doing admirable work in the part recently filled by Marie Cahill in "The Wild Rose."

Grace Addison has recently completed a five weeks' engagement at Peak's island, Maine, as stock star.

Sadie Martinot's stock starring tour will begin at the Murray Hill theater, New York, the week of Oct. 13.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

As a rule in the orchard level cultivation is best.

If you allow too much top on a feeble tree, you will kill the tree.

Young strawberry plants are easily killed if strong fertilizers be applied directly on them after they are set out.

Apple orchards that are making too much growth of wood may often be brought into fruit bearing by severe summer pruning.

Mulching continuously is not always advisable, as it draws the roots too near the surface so that they lose their hold upon the soil.

Each tree requires a certain amount of room according to its kind and can be crowded only at the risk of getting reduced crops of undersized, inferior fruit.

A GOOD PRESCRIPTION.

Laughter as a Stomach Cure, and an Aid to Health.

Worry is but one of the many forms of fear, so that worry tends to the production of indigestion. Indigestion tends to put the body of the subject in a condition that favors worry. There is thus established a vicious circle which tends to perpetuate itself, each element augmenting the other.

It is necessary to secure a cheerful, wholesome atmosphere for the dyspeptic. He should eat his meals at a table where there is good fellowship and where funny stories are told. He should himself make a great effort to contribute his share of this at the table, even if it be necessary, as it was in one case under my care, for him to solemnly and seriously collect funny paragraphs from the press, and at first interject them spasmodically during lulls in the conversation at the table. The very efforts and determination of the man to correct his own selfish habits at table, to correct his feelings of discouragement and worry, were in themselves a promise of success. The effort made was adequate to the obstacles to be overcome. He succeeded, and the spectacle of that man trying to be funny at table when he felt thoroughly discouraged and blue is one we shall never forget.

Laughing is in itself also a useful exercise from the standpoint of digestion. It stirs up all the abdominal organs, it increases the circulation of the blood, it increases peristalsis, it increases the secretion of gastric juices. Five minutes' deliberate laughing after each meal would be an excellent prescription for some people.—Family Doctor.

THE BIRTH OF JAPAN.

Curious Legend of the Creation Handed Down by the Japanese.

The following is the curious legend of the creation as it is told in Japan: Clouds formed the bridge on which once god Yzanagi and his spouse Yzanuma stood pondering on the riddle of existence, whether the beginnings of life lay slumbering in that sea of chaos. Yzanagi, apparently more enterprising than philosophically inclined, seized his shimmering spear and plunged it into the black and seething flood. Pulling it up again, he discovered seven salt drops on its diamond point, which, dropping, condensed and formed the island of Cusokorosima.

Thereupon Yzanagi and his spouse selected the spot of earth which had thus been created as their permanent dwelling place and peopled it with innumerable genii of animal and plant life and spirits of the elements. And around this "palace of immortality" rose eight other islands—Awadsi, the island of foam; the mountainous Cho, Yamato, blessed with fruit; Yyo, unsurpassed in its beauty; the quadrangular Tsikousi, Sado, rich in copper and gold; Yki, one of the pillars of heaven, and Oko, surrounded by three satellites.

Such was the birth of Japan, of that curious land of Fusiama, with its amiable population of artist artisans, its graceful tea-houses, its glistening silks, its grotesque dwarf trees, its white cranes and dreamy lotus ponds.—Harper's Magazine.

The Tired Foot.
A lady was watching a potter at his work whose one foot was kept with a "swift slackening speed turning his 'never slacken round' while the other rested patiently on the ground. When the lady said to him in sympathizing tone, "How tired your foot must be!" the man raised his eyes and said: "No, ma'am; it isn't the foot that works that's tired. It's the foot that stands. That's it."

If you want to keep your strength, use it. If you want to get tired, do nothing. As a matter of fact, we all know that the last man to give a helping hand to any new undertaking is the man who has plenty of time on his hands. It is the man and woman who are doing the most who are always willing to do a little more.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Man and the Wave.
Once upon a time a man was telling a tale of woe that unveiled his matrimonial experience.

"It was all on account of a little dainty handkerchief," he said. "The first time that I saw the girl and before we had been introduced she waved that bit of lace at me, and I was carried away. It was a fall in love and then matrimony. But, alas, that delicate handkerchief was no index to the girl's nature, and I found myself wrecked on the sea of matrimony."

Moral.—A man may be carried away by a wave and wrecked without going near the water.—New York Herald.

USEFUL GOWNS.

Smart but Plain Effects in Serviceable Materials.

Simple little gowns of serge, wool moure and other useful and smart materials will be much used this winter instead of the shirt waists so much in vogue. These will be made quite plainly, depending on the excellence of their fit for style. The cheviot gowns are trimmed with braid and irregular applications of panne velvet.

A great deal of hairy goods will be used for these utility gowns, and among them all the tints of gray, black and even pure white will predominate. The white will be of camel's hair.

trimmed with heavy appliques and can be worn on quite dressy occasions. The darker shades of gray are trimmed with black and white passementerie.

Strapped effects are all the vogue, and these are seen equally on waists and skirts. The strappings are often of the same goods stitched with contrasting silk.

An attractive gown of white serge is here shown. The waist has the cape effect so fashionable at present. The sleeves are laid in folds and held down by strappings of deep red velvet. The loose front is of all over white lace. The skirt is cut with a simple flounce. The hat is of white felt, trimmed with red wings and a facing of red velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

WHAT WOMEN ARE WEARING

The New Fall Hats—Smart Patent Leather Shoes.

The fall everyday millinery is extremely simple, but the sailor hat is extinct and more graceful shapes have taken its place. One of the most popular is a turban with a shallow back which is drawn in once or twice. The front is usually trimmed with choux of ribbon or silk cut on the bias, but velvet is very smart or large rosettes of crepe de chine. Large felt shapes with the fronts laden with flowers or foliage still remain popular for dressy wear. Boat shapes with the back flat and finished with a wide bow of velvet or ribbon are also considered smart, and all hats are worn excessively forward and quite close and flat in the back.

Patent leather shoes will be worn this winter more than ever, for nothing looks so neat or gives the foot such a well shod appearance.

Plain tailor made of gray cloth have a decidedly smart appearance and are almost universally becoming.

The illustration shows a very smart plain tailor made, the material of which is pale gray cloth.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Reprehensible.

"Ain't that a shame when good housekeepers are so scarce!"—Exchange.

Hard to Get.

A certain young fellow received a government berth, for which he had to undergo a very strict examination.

One day a friend of his who had been noticing how little work he did to earn his salary tackled him.

"I say, Walter, my boy," he began, "you don't perform a great deal of labor, do you?"

"No, I don't have to."

"Aren't you expected to work?"

"Of course not," was the candid reply. "It takes so much hard work to get a job like this that the authorities haven't the nerve to ask a man to do anything more to earn his salary, after he gets it."

An Enterprising Burglar.

A professional burglar in Berlin found a new and original way of adding to the ordinary profits of his profession. After each burglary he sent a full account of it to one of the daily newspapers, and for this he received payment in the usual way. But he tried his plan once too often. The editor became suspicious and gave information to the police, who soon found how this amateur reporter was able to beat all rivals in the way of early information.

The Lucky Member of the Family.

"No use o' talkin'," said Mr. Erastus Pinkley, "dat brother o' mine is a mighty lucky man. He allus has money."

"But you must remember that he is much more industrious than you are. He isn't at all afraid of work."

"Dat's jes de point. He were lucky in bein' born industrious."—Washington Star.

Not Particular.

Primus—Although you are a millionaire, my love is so great, sir, that it emboldens a poor man like myself to seek a daughter of yours in marriage.

Secundus—Which of the girls is it, young man?

Primus—Any one of the three, sir.

Safer Anyway.

Ukerek—Nothing is better in a time of danger than presence of mind.

Gobane—Oh, think it over. What's the matter with absence of body?

Y. M. C. A.
COURSE OF ENTERTAINMENTS FOR THE YEAR

Announced Today by the Committee—
First Number is Scheduled for October 15.

The Y. M. C. A. entertainment course has been selected and the committee today announced the list of the year's attractions. Great care was given to choose only the best talent, and the result is a course of concerts, lectures and entertainments that surpasses, we believe, any course the association has yet offered.

The following is a list of the talent and the date of the entertainments:

October 15—The Mendelssohn Quartette company and Marguerite Smith, of the famous Smith sisters, child impersonator. The Mendelssohn Quartette is considered by many the best male quartette traveling. They are assisted by Miss Helen Faye, mezzo-soprano, and by Marguerite Smith, who from lakes to gull, and from east to west, is known and acknowledged "Queen of Child Impersonators."

November 13—Prof. John B. De Motte in his famous illustrated lecture "The Harp of the Senses," or "The Secret of Character Building." Prof. De Motte occupies a unique place in the lecture field. No other approaches him. His lectures, while thoroughly scientific are made intensely interesting with the magnificent views and experiments he throws upon the screen and with the eloquence and grace of his address. His audience is always profoundly impressed as much by his earnest personality as by the deep truths he teaches.

January 29—The Katherine Ridgeway Concert company. Miss Ridgeway is enjoying a remarkable success as reader and entertainer. Although supported by a strong company of artists she herself is practically the "whole show." As some one has well said, "She is one of those rare persons, a reciter who can recite, an entertainer who really entertains." With Geo. W. Jenkins, tenor; Percy J. Hunt, baritone, and Miss Agnes Farrell, pianist, this makes an exceptionally strong attraction.

February 13—The Read-Banks-Amsbary Combination. Ople Read, the well known author and story teller; Charles Eugene Banks, poet and humorist, and Wallace Bruce Amsbary, reader of dialect stories and poems, make up an evening's program of rare quality and variety. Wit and wisdom, tears and laughter, harmless fun and homely common sense in harmonious proportion, fill the evening full of pleasure.

March 24—The George H. Iott Concert company. George H. Iott, basso; Agnes Pringle, violinist; Charlotte Selleck Tarrant, harpist, and J. F. Cavyon, crayon artist and chalk talker. Many will remember with pleasure the remarkable singing of George H. Iott, with the Ottumwa Quartette a few years ago. The other artists with the company assist him in giving an exceptionally pleasing program.

April 11—Hon. John P. Dolliver, in his Patriotic Lecture "The Nation of America." The committee is to be congratulated in securing a date from Dolliver. Although he charges a big price for his lectures, the demand is so great that all his time is taken up early in the season. He needs no recommendations. It is enough to say "Dolliver will lecture." One of the foremost men in American politics today, a brilliant orator and statesman, a man of highest repute and noblest character.

Tickets for the course will be put on sale next Monday, September 15. The experience of the last two years and the expressed preference of many of the patrons of the course has led the committee to adopt the plan of selling season tickets with permanent reserved seats again this year. The following grade of prices seems to be the most fair that has yet been adopted: Season ticket with permanent reserved seat; lower floor and first two rows in the gallery, $2; balance of gallery seats $1.50. Single admission 50 cents; single admission with reserved seat, 75 cents.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. are given a reduced rate on the season tickets.

IN A GAME
Newark Man Lost $130—Two Men Arrested on Charge of Fleecing Mr. Gleason.
(Columbus Dispatch.)
The police have rounded up a bunch of people from Third and adjacent streets and part of the "bunch" will be charged with vagrancy. Henry Scott and William Boss, two of the arrested parties, will be charged with vagrancy until the fleecing of A. F. Gleason of Newark, in August, can be investigated. Gleason it is said was coaxed into a game and robbed of $130.

Ben Boss, Jean Cooper, Kug Scott, Ben Baker, Harry Gaugh and W. H. Alexander were all arrested until the mystery is cleared up. Detectives Dorgan, Bergin, Rourke and Owens made the arrests.

If your sleep is not restful and refreshing, if your spirits are low, if you are morose, melancholic, and oppressed with morbid feelings, be assured your blood demands immediate attention.

Paine's Celery Compound is the one great and never failing agent for making, pure, fresh blood, for nourishing the dominant organs of the body, for recruiting the strength of young and old. Often, very often, a delay of one day proves fatal. Foul and poisoned blood carries death at every beat of the heart. Mrs. C. R. Root, Mansfield, Pa., says:

"When I began taking Paine's Celery Compound I was all run down after a severe attack of the gripe and was almost tired of life. I had salt rheum very badly in my hands, and the doctors told me there was no permanent cure for it when it had got into a persons blood so badly, but I am happy to tell you that Paine's Celery Compound cured me of salt rheum, kidney trouble, and other ailments. It is always my doctor."

LIGHT FOR THE OHIO FALLS
Electric Searchlight on Tower Will Aid Boats to Avoid Collisions.
The only inland lighthouse save those on the great lakes is to be erected at the falls of the Ohio, says a dispatch from Louisville, O., to the Pittsburg Dispatch. The lighthouse is to be erected at the head of the Indiana shoot. According to the plans, it is to be eighty-four feet high from the rock bottom which forms the crest of the falls. A plot 150 feet long and V shaped will be built of stone rising to a level two feet higher than the flood mark of 1884.

On this will be erected the house of the keeper and a steel tower on which will be placed a searchlight, operated by machinery at the base of the tower. By means of this the harbor can be swept at all times and a close watch kept for all craft in danger, besides being of service as the boats go over the falls at night.

FALSE PISTACHIO NUTS.
How the Demand Has Been Supplied by Various Subterfuges.
What with the popularity of green ice cream and confectionery and the growth of immigration from Mediterranean countries there has been a steady increase in the consumption of pistachio nuts. So extensive has been the change that many merchants have yielded to the temptation of imitating the pleasant vegetable tissue. In flavor it is like a mild almond, and the chief perceptible difference between the two lies in the color. The unscrupulous dealer blanches his almonds, crushes them and colors them with chlorophyll, or spinach green. The imitation is so close that only experts can tell the difference between the two. The Greeks in New York seem to have been the first to discover this ingenious fraud and seldom sell the pistachio paste which was once in vogue. They import and keep in stock medium quantities of pistachio nuts, which are said to be grown in Greece, the Greek archipelago and Asia Minor. These nuts are smaller than the average and are harder and drier. The Armenians use a larger size, which is said to come from their own country, Syria, and Persia. To an American palate the nuts are not very agreeable. They are a trifle too hard and suggest biting on a piece of wood rather than any nutritious kernel.

Both Greeks and Armenians employ them for a variety of purposes. In nearly all cases the nuts are hulled, scalded and skinned. The kernel is then crushed dry or broken and softened by hot water. It may be boiled into a soft substance, a trifle harder than a baked potato, or it may be roasted, although the operation gives it a burned and not altogether enjoyable taste. The Greeks utilize the nut in many varieties of cake and confectionery, while the Armenians employ it in stuffing fowl, lamb and in making pilau and other savory dishes. The pistachio nuts are not overexpensive, costing about the same as the almonds. It is possible that we will have some of the native growth ere long, as the experiment of raising them is now being tried in southern California.—New York Post.
